

Conversations with parents with interpreters - tips

It can be very helpful to conduct an important parent-teacher conference with families who do not speak the language of instruction with an interpreter who is coordinated by the school.

Here are some tips from experience:

- 1. before the interview, teachers should inform the interpreter about the content and aim of the interview so that the interpreter can prepare.
- 2. teachers should speak slowly and clearly during the interview to ensure that the interpreter can translate all information correctly and completely.
- 3. Teachers should ensure that the interpreter is neutral and professional and does not have a personal relationship with the parents to avoid any potential conflict of interest.
- 4. It is important to treat parents with respect and empathy in order to create a positive atmosphere for dialogue.
- 5. Teachers should ensure that all important information is communicated clearly and comprehensibly so that parents can understand their child's situation and possible courses of action.
- 6. It is advisable to summarise at the end of the conversation what agreements have been made and what further steps are planned in order to avoid misunderstandings.
